

International Conference on
Common European Security after the Cold War:
What are the Solutions to New Challenges?

Prague, 16-17 September 2016

Press release

A parterre of international experts and accredited political leaders, will meet in Prague, on 16 – 17 September, to inaugurate the international conference “Common European Security after the Cold War: What are the Solutions to New Challenges?"; great international event divided into three points:

- 1. The common European Security – with or without Russia?;
- 2. Choices between sovereignty and integration. European security and its pillars in politics, economics, culture;
- 3. Europe facing Migration, Terrorism, Xenophobia and Nationalism – what are the answers?

The conference of Prague is organized by the Nobel Prize Peace, Michail Gorbachev, with the President of the Czech Republic, Miloš Zeman, and with the collaborations of “Foundation Italiani” - chairman Angelo R. Schiano - and Czech foundation “The Iron Curtain Foundation”, chairman Jan Karvan.

With a historical approach, the participants of the conference will talk about: the fall of communism; the extension to the east of NATO; European model liberal-capitalist; Russia's relationship with Europe; European Union crisis.